Site 751

Saint Basil's Cathedral

A 16th century Russian church on Red Square in Moscow, now a museum. Commissioned by Ivan IV to commemorate his victories over the Mongol Khanates of Khazan and Astrakhan, it was dedicated to the Blessed Virgin but is called the Cathedral of St. Basil the Blessed. The church built between 1555 and 1560 by Postnick and Barma combines the stone Byzantine Dome style and the wooden Russian Tent shaped style. The stone structure is dominated by a high octagonal tower over a central chapel. The tower is surrounded by eight smaller towers over four large octagonal chapels on the main axes and four small polygonal ones between. They are enclosed by a gallery built later. The towers and their onion shaped domes are heavily carved and though originally white-washed, have been polychromed since the 17th century creating an exotic splendor.

SUMMARY OF INFORMATION

Site is a structure. The dimensions of the structure include diagonals, steep verticals and many curves or arches (see sketch page 3). The site is inert, cold and very quiet. I experienced an AI of abandonment, alone and quiet surroundings. There is a large amount of stone used in the construction of the building -- it looks like (AOL/S) a brownstone building. There are lots of windows, and the building is 6 maybe 8 stories high. On the top of the main structure there are bumps, poles and wires. There are also lots of small squares inherent to the structure's surface.

There are aspects on the inside of the structure which appear broken old and cracked (see AOL sketch, page 5).

There are many floors to the structure, in fact there is an aspect of structure above structure about the site.

There are rooms in the structure which have folded cloth in them. Inside room "A" there is a picture which has a large gold frame around it; there are also tables and chairs. The room is long and the ceiling is low (normal height). Concepts associated with the word "picture" are: frame, canvas, man, dignitary, famous, important, leader, party, government, political, and historical.

The man in the picture can be described as having short dark hair, wire rim glasses, dark ornate suit and a large moustache. He is seated and looking to the right. The man in the picture is intense, serious, well read, studied, educated, directed, organized, oriented, loving, a father, a husband; and he is associated with business, science -- he is a founder, a leader and president of something.
